Patrick Collins said that he was standing in front of his home in Railroad avenue when Joseph Malahally walked up and struck his brother, John, with a fence picket.

Previously John had told the coroner Malahally struck Patrick. The hearing was held at 9 a. m. in the city court today the charge against the Collins boys and Arthur Malstrom of 1234 State street and John Stacey of 1128 Railroad avenue who were all held in connection with Muchlanas' death was changed from assault with a deadly weapon to manslaughter. Walker Leaves State Prison; Will Take Trip

Goes to Sister's Home in New Britain and Issues No Statement.

Hartford, Dec. 4.—William F. Walker, New Britain embezzler, paroled Wednesday, is now at the home of his sister in New Britain. It was learned yesterday that he would leave the prison some time in the afternoon but plans were changed and he left this morning.

No word came from Judge John Connelley's wife to the warden up to 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, the time at which the prison closes for the night. Walker went back to his cell. He marched in to supper with his wife, the same as he had done for the past few years and partook of a frugal supper, fruit, bread and beverages that constitutes the light evening meal at the prison. At the customary hour of 9 o'clock he went to bed, in the prison hospital.

Walker rose at the usual time this morning, and went silently to breakfast with his fellow prisoners at 6:30 o'clock. After he was busy at his work in the little old-fashioned printshop in a corner of the prison storehouse.

At 8 o'clock at last came the summons to the little old man man and no symptoms of emotions. He had his orders, to quit his work and prepare to leave the prison, and he calmly obeyed. He was aided in discarding his uniform and donning the clothes his sister had provided and shortly after 8 o'clock he passed through the heavily bolted gates that separated the prison proper from the offices and the outside world, perhaps for the last time in his life.

In the warden's office, shortly before 9 o'clock he signed his parole papers, by doing which he promised to report to the warden once a month while on parole, to abstain from use of liquor in any form, to refrain from carrying concealed weapons of any sort and generally to conduct himself as a useful, law-abiding citizen. This done, he turned to the warden, Chief Clerk Frey and the assistant clerk, and thanked them for their kindness to him, shook them by the hand and said good-bye.

Then with their farewells, he stepped forth into the biting air and bright sun of a new day.

"Just as calm and cool as any of them when they leave here," was Warden Garner's comment. "Not a sign of joy, not a sign of anticipation, just as calm as any case I have without comment or emotion."

Walker was taken to New Britain in the prison auto driven by Warden Garner's chauffeur.

On Friday Mrs. Coats, sister of Walker, applied to Col. N. G. Osborn, of New Haven, chairman of the board of parole, for permission to take her brother out of the state. She was told it was a matter which the full board should decide.
